Minstrel Show Scores Hit With 3 Packed Houses

Ocean Beach Actors Display Real Talent

A packed house every one of the three nights of Thursday, Friday and Saturday last week greeted the "Sunset Minstrels," Ocean Beach home talent minstrel show staged at Wallace Hall. Enthusiastic expressions of approval were heard on all sides from those attending and the general verdict they pronounced was that the show was a "huge success and that no event of the kind in a long time has attracted so much community interest in Ocean Beach." The playgoers gave particular credit to Interlocutor Philip Harris, pastor of Trinity Episcopal church, for whose building fund 90 percent of the net proceeds will be given; to Clarence Dersch, the manager and director of the show and the four end men, Dan Moss, Frank Curran, Fred Edwards and Al Hunt.

The show was made up of two acts and the intervening "olio." The specialties as announced in the program were the following:

Act I—Opening chorus, "Are You From Dixie," by the entire cast; "Mammy," sung by Ed Moodhe of the U. S. Navy; dance by the "Gold Dust Twins", Buddy Wilson and Bob Bauman; banjo selections by "Smoky Lincoln," played by Ted Maconnell; trombone solo, by Raymond J. Wright; "Lazy Bones," sung by Remus Raber; and "Shine on Harvest Moon," sung by the chorus.

Olio consisted of vaudeville stories and trick and fancy roping by "Slim" Coates of Pacific Beach, well known San Diego entertainer, and his troupe including "Mac" McGee, Bert Howell, the magician, and Eddie Guerrero, Latin American musician.

Act II—"Can't you hear me calling Caroline," sung by the chorus; trumpet selections by "Mammy's Bell Hops," these three boys being Jimmy Hunter, Donnie Hunter and Gordon Jennings; cake walk entitled, "Dark Town Strutter's Ball,' by Clarence Dersch and Margarette Falkenthal; popular songs by Mrs. John De Voe; expert juggling by K. Urbanka; trumpet solo, by Jimmy Hunter; medicine act by Fred Edwards, Danny Moss and Marc Strauss; tap dancing, by Carol Jean Lawrence; "Mammy's Laundry Bag," a skit by Amelie Bruce, Adele Kissinger, Nancy Stevens and Carol Bruce; toe dancing, by Margarette Falkenthal, solo, "Accentuate the Positive," by Father Philip Harris; "Trolley Song" and "A Good Man is Hard to Find," by the chorus. The closing number, by the chorus, was "My Dreams Are Getting Better All the Time."

Director Dersch, commenting on the show, said Tuesday, "I wish to take this opportunity to thank the following people in particular for their cooperation in making the show a success:"

End men Fred Edwards, Dan Moss, Al Hunt and Frank Curran; Father Philip Harris, Raymond J. Wright, Ed Moodhe, Bud Wilson, Bob Bauman, Ted Maconnell, Remus Raber, Donna Reid, "Slim" Coates, Bert Howell, "Mac" McGee, Eddie Guerrero, Jimmy Hunter, Orlan Ramsey, Donnie Hunter, Charles Wilson, Gordon Jennings, Margarette Falkenthal, Mrs. John DeVoe, K. Urbanka, Marc Strauss, Carol Jane Lawrence, Amelia Bruce, Adele Kissinger, Nancy Stevens, Carol Bruce and the entire minstrel chorus.

Also Mrs. Meta Bruce, assistant director, Mrs. Bud Jennings, business manager; Mrs. Gordon Lilley, Mrs. Cunningham, Mrs. Flora Johnson, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Otis Bryant, Mrs. Donald Gillman, Mrs. E. Hunter, and Mrs. Lake. Special mention goes to Mrs. Fern Searcy as pianist, to Vern Searcy for the sound effects, to Bob Lewis for the drums and to Norman Bingnear, the prop man.

Mr. Dersch also stated that he wished to thank the merchants of Ocean Beach and Point Loma for their part in helping to put the show over. The following merchants gave door prizes: Cache of Sweets, Jessops, Thearles, Walkers, Wallens Sports Goods, Parmalee Dohrman and Hamiltons.

ADMITTED EX-CONVICT ARRESTED ON BRIGHTON AVE. WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Leonard H. Richardson, 32, was arrested in the 5100 block on Brighton Ave., Ocean Beach police reported Thursday on a charge of disturbing the peace. Complaint had been entered by a neighbor, Hillary Harbison, 5025 Brighton, that Richardson had "been standing in front of 5129 Brighton yelling, cursing and using vile language toward Frances Smith, allegedly his landlady, and that he had brandished a knife and had threatened to kill her." Frances Smith, however, informed the officers that he was more or less harmless, they reported. The police state that later Richardson admitted he was an ex-convict from the Michigan state prison. Further examination showed he had failed to register for the draft, so that charge was added to the other against him.

The Home Appliance Company of San Diego, which now conducts a small store on Newport Ave. announced this week the purchase of a lot across the street south from the Stevenson Garage, on which the plan is to construct a large electrical and gas appliance store as soon as the necessary priorities can be obtained.

H. R. Ascher Jr., purchaser of the lot, which is 50 feet front by 140 feet deep, informed The News Wednesday that the plan is to greatly expand their business in Ocean Beach in order to handle all kinds of electrical and gas appliances. Plans and specifications for the new building have not yet been formulated, he said, but his idea is to have a modern structure the full 50 feet in width, utilizing half of it at least for the expanded business.

His uncle, J. K. Ascher, is in partnership with him in the business and they now conduct the main store at 3824 30th St., San Diego. James A. Bowker, manager of the present small store here, will continue as manager of the new store, Mr. Ascher stated.

Germany's People Prefer Yanks For Occupation Army

Sergeant Writes Of Leaving Thuringia To Russians

Evidently the German people much prefer the Americans to the Russians as an army of occupation, according to the following letter written by Sgt. Francis G. Swan, who is on duty in Europe with the Sixth Armored division, written to his parents, Editor and Mrs. F. F. Swan:

Germany, July 5, 1945

Dear Folks:

We have moved and are now camped about 20 miles from Frankfurt. It is another tent bivouac only this time we have 12x12 squad tents instead of pup tents. There are many things going on here of a military nature and transfers and changes being made, most of which I can't write about. However, I do know now that I'm not coming home so I wanted to write you and tell you to quit sweating me out.

When the 6th Armored pulled out of Thuringia province the Russians pulled in, and Troop "A" of the 86th Cavalry had the honor of being the unit to stay behind and effect the change of occupation. For the first few days after the rest of the division left we pulled outpost guard on all the bridges and highways in the area to prevent the frantic Krauts from pulling out altogether. The German civilians are terrified of the Red Army. Prior to our posting guards they were pulling out of Thuringia in droves. The roads were lined with the motley and pitiful components of the largest mass migration in modern history. I guess I'm getting too damned soft hearted but I couldn't help but feel pangs of pity when I saw the old people and little children struggling along the road in the rain with all of their meagre belongings on their backs or in little broken-down carts. All of them have a lost and desolate look, they are hungry and poorly clothed and yet I suppose they asked for it and had it coming. It is hard to arrive at the right attitude about the suffering of the German common people. I guess it depends upon the basic issue of whether a people are to blame for what their leaders do. I feel relatively sure that the average German

News From Housing Project Area Received

All roads led to the Azure Vista Community building for children with pets recently when the Azure Vista Summer Pet show was held. What an assortment of animals! He successfully rivalled all dogs in his ability to "sit-up." The blue ribbon for the prettiest cat went to Mitchel Kuhl. Beverley Bogen brought the prettiest dog, a black cocker spaniel with beautiful black curls on its ears. Best dressed pet was Robert Gardner's dog. The collie belonging to Gene Eidy easily won the prize for the largest pet, while the smallest pet was Gilbert Kleecan's tiny baby-mouse. Kiwanians Hear Of 1945 Session Of Legislature

Assemblyman Kraft Tells Of Action On Bills

Recent session of the state legislature at Sacramento set something of a record, Assemblyman Fred H. Kraft told the Kiwanians at their Tuesday evening meeting, held at the Woman's clubhouse. At least 3330 bills were introduced, he said, of which approximately 1600 passed and went to the governor's desk. The sessions lasted 147 days, a new record.

Assemblyman Kraft was the speaker and Richard Hilmen the program chairman for the evening.

The speaker gave interesting sidelights of the session and highlights on some of the main bills that were before the legislature. He said in part:

"Post-war planning came in for much debate, and was a tough program to line up.

"I believe we were wise in holding down radical legislation. The radicals introduced many bills. All they wanted was to get something for nothing. And the radicals really mustered a lot of strength.

"The uncertainties of the times no doubt were to blame for the differences that cropped out between the assembly and the senate. As a matter of fact, the political parties themselves were divided on many of the important issues. Both Republicans and Democrats were disagreed among themselves.

"The budget bill, of course, was a big problem to handle, as were all the appropriation bills. Because of the surplus state funds, the pressure for appropriations was unusually great. I am led to believe that likely it is better to have the state treasury in the red in order to hold down all these demands for state money.

"On the budget, as a matter of fact, the legislators control only 39 percent of the budget, the public being responsible for the 61 percent.

"San Diego, we felt was more in need of state aid than most parts of the state because of the unusual war conditions of congestion here. Fortunately, we were able to get a reasonable amount of appropriations for this city.

"One trouble was that the appropriation bills piled up near the end of the session, with the result that there was no chance to compute the total of them so we could know whether there were sufficient state funds available to meet such expenditures. In the rush, the disposition was to pass the bills and then leave it to the governor to find out whether or not there was enough state funds available, and let him worry about which of these bills should be vetoed.

"On the proposed sales tax increase, I held out for the three percent tax, a raise of half a cent over the present rate of 2½ percent."

In regard to public health insurance, after telling about the many bills of this kind that were introduced and the problem it gave to his committee to which these bills were referred, he said that although none of them passed, he looks for the matter to come up again and for some type of a health insurance bill to pass the legislature, likely a type that will be voluntary rather than compulsory. He said his committee was to further study this problem during the interim before the next session.

Visiting Kiwanians at Tuesday's meeting were Dr. George Warmer of the San Diego club, Adam Ewlberg of the Brawley club, Harry Moore of the East San Diego club, George Foss of the El Centro club and Fenton Feeney of Glendora club.

Other visitors were F. R. Morgan of Brazil, a guest of Dr. John Wilhoit; Richard Insko, a guest of his father, Myron Insko; Harry Cordua of San Francisco, a guest of Martin Murphy and James Ryan, a guest of Dr. W. B. Oster.

Martin Murphy, vice president was in the chair, in the absence of President Jerry Sullivan.

GOD IS MY CO-PILOT

By COL. ROBERT L. SCOTT

WNU Features.

CHAPTER IX: Burma is falling into the hands of the Japs. Flying over bombed and burned Chinese towns they land at Schwebo. Scott meets General Stilwell and his party.

CHAPTER X: Scott's group carries refugees out of Burma, heavily overloading the planes. He pays a visit to Gen. Chennault and tells him he is a fighter pilot and not a ferry pilot and is promised the next P-40 that arrives from Africa.

CHAPTER XI: Open season on Japs—the big adventure is near. Scott gets his first Jap—an army number on the ground. He burns up some Jap trucks and a fuel dump.

CHAPTER XII: Scott goes on so-called strafing missions with his "Old Exterminator," as he has now nicknamed his Kittyhawk, and cuts a Jap battalion to bits.

CHAPTER XIII: The AVG are told they are to be inducted into the U. S. army. Scott returns to India and continues his single ship raids on the Japs. He is now known back in the States as "the one man air force."

CHAPTER XIV: Col. Haynes is moved to China to head the bomber command under Gen. Chennault and Scott is left alone as commanding officer of the Ferry Command. Scott is ordered to report to Gen. Chennault in Kunming, China, as commanding officer of the 23rd Fighter Group.

CHAPTER XV: Col. Scott is ordered to proceed to the Kweilin area to take charge of fighter operations.

CHAPTER XVI: He intercepts a flight of Jap planes and downs a bomber. His tank is empty but he succeeds in landing it dry.

As the ship crossed over my head, I pulled around in the tightest turn I have ever made, mushing down in the clouds a good distance, and that must have hid me momentarily from the fighter escort. As I came out, the bomber was completing its turn opposite to the way I had turned, and I moved in for a full-deflection shot—a shot possible when the other ship is crossing your path, at 90 degrees. I had slowed down, however, and had to reef in and shoot at it from beneath and behind. I got a good burst in here.

But now I saw tracers all around me and felt a couple of hits: the Zeros were shooting at me. One of the enemy fighters dove in front of me and I got a snap shot at it from a hundred yards. I dove under the bomber again, and with the speed that I gained, tried to make a belly attack; I got in another shot burst and felt some more hits on my ship.

As I pulled up, the Zero that had been shooting at me made the mistake of rolling at the top of his climb, and I dove at him and gave him about two hundred rounds with a no-deflection shot; I know the burst hit him badly. I shot at the other fighter from long range as he tried a head-on run. But the clouds were worrying the Japs—they seemed to have trouble seeing me. As my dive at the Zero built my speed up, I turned towards the bomber again; it saw me and started a turn to the right. I snapped a short head-on shot, and before I got to the enemy ship, I tossed caution to the winds and made a hundred and eighty degree turn—the Jap was right in front of my guns and I was already shooting. I held the trigger down and saw the tracers hit the big wing, the fuselage, and saw the glass stream from the canopy. I just squeezed the trigger and "froze" as the bomber seemed to come back towards me.

As I drew up to less than a hundred yards the big red spots on the wing grew wider and wider apart, and I saw pieces come from the left engine. I nearly rammed the enemy—I still don't see how I missed the radio antenna pole behind the glass canopy; I could see the guns waving to and fro, and they shot at me.

But the bomber was going down. I didn't pull up as I went past him this time, but dove steeply. When I came out of the dive I looked back for the Zeros but they were not to be seen. Above and behind me, the bomber was spinning slowly in flames, the black smoke making a spiral above the clouds—I saw it go into the clouds as I mushed through in my pullout. I came out below the clouds, which were broken in a few places now, but I couldn't see the Jap ships. I made one half circle and didn't know where I was.

Finally remembering my fuel supply, I breathlessly glanced at the gauges, and they were all bouncing around on—EMPTY! I turned and headed West with my throttle retarded and the prop set back for cruising. Now I called Sasser, having forgotten to call him at the moment of contact with the enemy. I told him about the interception, that I knew I had shot down the bomber and had gotten some bursts on the fighters. Sasser told me that there was a flight on the way from Hengyang, led by Gil Bright.

My altitude was ten thousand now, and I held it while I just about glided with power to the West, where I should see the Hengyang-Kweilin railroad. As I finished my report over the radio, Sasser in Kweilin told me S-3, and Richardson at Hengyang said S-3 also. But Miller at Lingling told me I sounded very close to his station, and gave me the report S-5. These mean, in radio technical language, that my volume was louder in Lingling than at either of the other two stations. More than likely I was closer to the middle town. I assumed this and flew West, letting down gradually.

Just then Miller must have received a report from a town that heard my engine, for he said, "You're Northeast of the field." I turned a little South and saw the welcome red clay of Lingling. I started feeling happy then—I'd been in the air on a cross-country for nearly four hours, and knew that I'd shot down at least one plane. I couldn't buzz the field though, for any minute I expected the engine to cough and the prop to start "windmilling"—out of gas. I put the wheels down and landed without even looking to see which way the wind was on the runway. I got the ship parked without the engine's dying, but the mechanics said they couldn't see any fuel in the tanks.

Rather excitedly I told my story. We counted the holes in my ship and then went over to count those in one of the fighters that had been in another battle that morning. Just then Miller came dashing up in a jeep to say that my air engagement had been reported over Leiyang, sixty miles to the East, and that confirmation had already come in on my bomber. It had crashed and burned eight miles from the town. That noon I was so excited that I couldn't eat my lunch—I just sat there and relived the battle. The sergeant came in to tell me there were seventeen holes in my ship, and two of them were from the cannon of the Zeros—they were all back near the tail; so maybe George Paxton had been right, and maybe the little bastards couldn't shoot. Well, we were to find out during the next ten days, very vividly.

I flew on to Hengyang that afternoon, and with Lieutenant Cluck in a jeep we drove to Leiyang. We had information that some of the crew or passengers had jumped from the bomber that morning and had been captured, and we needed the prisoners for information. With Chinese guides we climbed on foot over the rice paddies built on the hills, towards the scene of the crashed plane. Even before we'd covered the ten or more miles that we had to walk, I saw evidence of the airplane. It seemed as if every coolie that came towards us was carrying a piece of the Jap plane. Near the wreck I saw pieces of aluminum on the houses covering holes in the roofs, and saw some of the clothes from the Jap airmen. These we examined, and found a notebook, a map, and a pistol. Later the soldiers at the wreck gave us a chute and some other things of military value.

When we came to the burned bomber we found it pretty well scattered. The fabric was gone from the parts that hadn't burned, but the larger part was just a mass of burned metal. I noticed that the bodies of four Japs were lying where they had fallen, and several days later other visitors reported them still in the same positions. I looked in vain through the wreckage for a Samurai sword, which is the souvenir we value most from the Jap.

CHAPTER XVII

The surprise was that another plane had now been found several miles from the bomber. It was supposed to be a fighter, being smaller, and it had burned upon crashing. I therefore received credit for two enemy planes destroyed on July 31. It had been my first aerial combat, and I felt very proud indeed.

We found the reported prisoner, but he was dead. While being questioned he had tried to escape, had killed several Chinese, had wounded others, and in turn had been mortally wounded. Lieutenant Cluck got to him before he died, but was unable to get any valuable information.

My first aerial engagement started a story in Delhi—I found out about it four months later. The story told there was to the effect that I had engaged an enemy bomber over China, and regardless of its escort of two Zeros, had shot it down. It had crashed into the ground, and when they located it, they also found the two Zeros, which had dived into the rice paddies at the tail of the bomber, one on each side. Thus had the embarrassed pilots committed hara-kiri, for they had lost face by having the ship that they were escorting destroyed.

Well, it was a laugh. But I'm fairly certain the one Zero didn't commit suicide—I'm prone to believe that some good, honest lead-poisoning from six fifty-calibre American machine guns had a lot to do with it.

He writes, "The Gooney birds are losing their fuzz and are getting their feathers. If they were comical before they are twice as funny now. They are now trying their wings and starting to make their take-off runs. You see the Gooney bird has to take off like an airplane. Sometimes if there isn't any wind they can't get off the ground. The gooneys are almost to their full size now, that is, somewhat larger than a sea gull The Boatswan birds are in abundance now. They really do fly backwards. What they do is to fly into the wind and then lower their webbed feet which act like flaps on an airplane, and leave the breeze to carry them backwards. They also flap their wings in such a way that it helps this backward motion. These birds have long red tail feathers that were very valuable until the government stepped in and stopped their use commercially. Midway is a bird sanctuary and it is a federal offense to molest the birds."

PRESIDENT OF WOMAN'S CLUB BROADCASTS; OTHER BROADCASTS RECOUNTED

Mrs. C. W. Early, president of Ocean Beach Woman's club was heard over K.G.B. Wednesday, July 25 at 3:15 in a script written by herself. The theme was written in story form telling of the club's past year progress and accomplishments. Dr. Vera George, County Radio chairman, invited Mrs. Early, as first of the re-elected presidents in the county Federation, and because of the outstanding achievements of the club in the past year, to appear on this program. The script also included a part written for Mrs. Alvin Werre, president of the Mission Beach Woman's club, to read, telling of the past year's schedule of that club. Mrs. Early was assisted by her club's secretary, Mrs. G. E. Paulin, who worked together with her, typing and preparing the script which has brought forth much favorable comment from those hearing the broadcast.

Recalls Other Broadcasts

Members of the Woman's club, given to reminiscing, will recall that on Oct. 28, 1941, they went "on the air," over KGB. Terry O'Sullivan, now with a Hollywood hook-up, was master of ceremonies and together with Mrs. Albert Munchiando, club president, opened the program with a short humorous skit written by Mrs. Munchiando, telling of the washing away of the clubhouse by the high tides the week before.

"Is it true that Ocean Beach Woman's club have leased their clubhouse to a group of mermaids' asked Terry of Mrs. Munchiando. "No, Mr. O'Sullivan, that is not entirely true," replied Mrs. Munchiando," I think it would be more nearly correct to say that old man Neptune stole our clubhouse, and for all we know, he may have turned it over to a club of mermaids. Now this may sound fantastic I know, but it is a fact, that due to high tides and wind, on Oct. 18, our clubhouse was literally swallowed up by the ocean, so at present we are busily engaged looking for a new club site, preferably on a high mountain top." (Congressmen of Erosion sub-committee, please note.)

Again the next month the local club was honored, also the women's clubs of Pacific Beach and Mission Beach in being invited to broadcast from KGB., giving highlights of their respective objectives for the forthcoming year.

Chowder Comes to the Dinner Table!
(See Recipes Below)

Soup Suggestions

There's a lively interest in soup these days, and rightly so, for a soup that's rich enough can take the place of a meat dish at a meal and still satisfy even appetites made keenest by blustery winter weather.

Soups are good for filling in that gap before the main dish is brought to the table to satisfy the hungry. If they are substantial enough, that is, if they are creamed soups, or the thicker type of vegetable and meat combinations, no main dish is required. And, if there are any dieting members in the family, there are enough of the lighter types of soups which not only satisfy, but are low in caloric value.

First, there are the substantial lentil soups which have much nourishment:

Bean Soup.
1½ pounds pork shoulder or ham
2 tablespoons onion, chopped
1 pound navy beans
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon white pepper

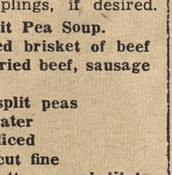
Soak the beans in water overnight. In the morning, parboil them. Cover the meat with water, then add beans, onions, salt and pepper. Cook 2½ to 3 hours. Serve with dumplings, if desired.

Yellow Split Pea Soup.
3 pounds smoked brisket of beef or scraps of dried beef, sausage or ham bone
2 cups yellow split peas
3 quarts cold water
¼ cup celery, diced
1 small onion, cut fine
2 tablespoons butter or substitute
1 teaspoon sugar
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
2 tablespoons flour

Pick over and wash peas. Soak them in cold water overnight, then drain and place in a saucepot with meat. Add cold water and let simmer gently for about 4 hours. Add celery during last part of cooking. Remove meaf when tender. Skim fat off the top of the soup. Heat 2 tablespoons of butter in frying pan, add the onions and brown. Blend in flour and gradually add soup, stirring constantly. Season to taste and serve with smoked meat, adding croutons.

Clam Chowder.
1 quart clams
4 cups potatoes diced
2 inch square fat, salt pork
1 onion, diced
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
4 teaspoons butter
4 cups milk
8 soda crackers, rolled

Pick over clams, drain and cut pork in small pieces. Fry out in skillet. Add onion and fry 5 minutes. Add potatoes, clam liquid and enough water to cover. Cook until nearly tender, then add butter, milk and seasoning. When potatoes are done and milk is very hot, add clams and cook for 3 minutes.



Lynn Says:

Soups for Meals: If there is any water left after vegetables are cooked, this should be saved and used for soup stock. A few extra vegetables may be added to give stronger flavor.

When milk is added to soups, it's richness and nutritive value is increased.

Serve big helpings of salad when soup is the main dish and have a really nutritious meal.

Soups may be garnished with toasted croutons, whipped cream or egg white or sprinklings of grated cheese, paprika, and parsley.

Lynn Chambers' Point-Saving Menu

*Recipe given.

Vegetable Chowder.
(Serves 6)
¼ cup butter
3 medium onions, peeled and chopped
2 slices green pepper, chopped fine
2¼ cups green beans
3 medium carrots, scraped and sliced thin
5 medium potatoes, peeled and cubed
3 cups boiling water
4 cups milk
3 teaspoons salt
Black pepper to suit taste
6 ounces (⅓ cup) grated American cheese
Seasoning salt

Melt butter in soup kettle. Add onions and green pepper and simmer 2 to 3 minutes in boiling water. Wash beans and slice thin. Prepare carrots and potatoes. Add beans and boiling water to butter and onion mixture, and cook uncovered for 15 minutes, or until all vegetables are tender. By this time most of the water will have evaporated. Add milk to the chowder, stirring carefully; heat just to boiling. Add salt, pepper and grated cheese. Remove immediately from fire and stir until cheese is melted. Serve piping hot with a sprinkling of seasoning salt on each serving.

Unusual soups are good to have in any cook's repertoire should you want to do something different for the company or family occasionally.

Chicken Meringue Soup.
(Serves 6)
1 quart chicken stock
1 carrot, sliced
3 onion slices
1 sprig parsley
2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
2 cups hot milk
2 beaten egg yolks
½ cup cream
½ teaspoon salt
2 egg whites

Heat chicken stock and vegetables for 15 minutes; strain and add tapioca; place over hot water and cook until tapioca is transparent. Add milk, then egg yolks combined with cream. Cook stirring constantly until thickened. Add salt to egg whites and beat until stiff. Serve soup in individual dishes topped with egg white sprinkled with paprika or chopped parsley.

Liver-Ball Soup.
(Serves 6 to 8)
2 pounds beef brisket
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 bay leaf
1 cup coarsely chopped celery
1½ cups canned tomatoes
1 cup sliced carrots

Cover meat with cold water and add seasonings. Simmer 1 hour. Add vegetables and simmer 1½ hours. Force vegetables through colander and add to meat stock. Reheat and add liver balls. Simmer 15 minutes.

Liver balls: Combine ½ pound calves' liver, ¾ cup dry bread crumbs, ¼ cup finely chopped parsley, ⅛ teaspoon celery seed, ¼ teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 beaten egg and ½ teaspoon onion juice; mix well and chill thoroughly. Form into 1-inch balls.

Ocean Beach Camp & Hospital

By ONA E. PITCOCK
Phone B.5639

The shortage of wash cloths for the hospital is critical and we are asking all who have material to make wash cloths to do so. It is impossible to buy them at present.

Camp and Hospital wants to thank everyone who has given books for our men in the South Pacific but not nearly enough have been donated. You members of the "Book of the Month Club" please donate your copy after you have read it. Others please go over your library or buy a book. We have a quota each week that we can send so please help fill that quota.

In the hospitals the boys are getting up stamp collections and you who have two or more of a kind please send them to the boys. Men who know stamps are giving the boys talks on them and the boys are so interested and anxious to get collections.

Go through your scrap bags and see if you cannot find bright wool pieces that will make stuffed animals. Maybe you have wool clothing that can be used. You do not realize how hard it is to get some of the articles so badly needed in Arts & Crafts so we have to appeal to you on the home front.

We have a ward of sick WAVES and once a week Camp and Hospital serves them a little treat of sandwiches, cookies and tea. You who have home-made jelly will you please donate a glass.

These WAVES have been working very conscientiously and some at corpsmen jobs and have become ill. We want to help them get back on duty as they are so badly needed.

Your help is sorely needed to make Christmas tree decorations. Come up and see what we are making and take material home to make up.

Once again we are asking for fishing tackle. Just lines, hooks and sinkers—no poles or reels.

The following "Thank You" letter is self-explanatory:

July 24, 1945

Dear Mrs. Pitcock:

Please accept the very grateful appreciation of the Production Corps of the American Red Cross for the very lovely aprons and pot-holders which you donated to the recently held Garden party.

You have been so loyal for so long to every department of the Red Cross. We are grateful to you for all you do and grateful for you. It is to women like you that appreciation is a slight gesture in comparison for all you have done.

Gratefully,
Mrs. Fred Payne,
Production Chairman
San Diego County.

IN THE SERVICE -

Tech. Sgt. Frank B. DeMack of 4657 Newport Ave. has been awarded the Bronze Star medal in Italy. As a representative from the Inspector General's Office, he received the award for designing and organizing a system whereby 10 men were able to examine 12,000 service records, an operation normally requiring 24 men to process 8,000 records thus saving vital manpower and speeding the redeployment program for aviation engineers in the Mediterranean Theatre. A veteran of 30 months overseas, Tech. Sgt. De Mack was formerly employed by the Los Angeles Times. He wears two battle stars on his European Campaign Ribbon and the Good Conduct medal in addition to the Bronze Star medal. Over 40 years old, he will be sent to the states for discharge in the near future.

John Alan Hansen, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Hansen of 4843 Del Monte Ave., has completed a course in the aviation ordnance school at the U. S. Naval Air Technical Training Center, Norman, Okla., and has been promoted to seaman first class, the Eleventh Naval district announced today. He is awaiting transfer to a Naval unit afloat to put into practice his technical knowledge, or assignment to another shore station for additional instruction and duty.

Harold L. Bemis, 19, seaman, first class, USNR, 4732 Lotus St., served aboard the battle cruiser the USS Guam, while she was proving her worth during nearly six months of combat from Okinawa to the fringes of Japan's Inland sea. The Guam, under the command of Capt. Leland P. Lovette, USN, made her battle debut on the morning of March 18, during the now historic two-day air strike against the Ryukyus and the Inland sea area of Japan. Guns of the big battle cruiser were credited with shooting down two Jap planes as they attempted suicide dives on a nearby aircraft carrier. In addition, she is credited with assists on six attacking enemy planes, while her 12-inch guns have poured tons of steel on two Jap-held islands. The Guam, an American version of the pocket battleship and a comparatively recent addition to the Pacific Fleet, cruised with her task force off Japanese shores for 61 days. In recent operations, supporting the Okinawa invasion, she protected carriers of her escort in a series of battles.

AMERICAN HEROES

by WOODY COWAN

A SILVER STAR for gallantry in action has been awarded to Pfc. Julius Aschenbrenner, Pinckney, Mich. Although a member of a light machine gun section and therefore only armed with a pistol, Aschenbrenner advanced with several riflemen under heavy fire to knock out a machine gun position in New Guinea. He helped still the enemy fire. Men like that must have weapons, food and clothing. The War Bonds you buy and hold will provide them.

EXILING GERMAN OFFICERS—

The plan to exile about 10,000 German officers of the army, navy and air force, as reported in a copyright story from the New York Times and San Francisco Chronicle, will be a step in the right direction—if the step is actually taken and made to stick.

This number will include not only the high ranking generals and field marshals of Hitler's former war machine, but also the young staff officers who, if not removed from Germany, would some day fill the shoes of von Runstedt, Kesselring and other Prussian Junkers.

Exiling the 10,000 will not be a simple matter, however. And even more difficult will be the problem of keeping them effectively exiled—in other words, to prevent them from contacting sympathizers within the Reich and plotting ways of rebuilding German military might.

According to the report, the original plan considered was to send them all to British Honduras or the Falkland Islands. Now it is proposed to break them up into small groups and disperse them throughout this country and its possessions, the British Empire and Soviet Russia.

Where they could be located in the United States without violent public opposition in a mystery, unless it be in the middle of the Mojave Desert. And we don't imagine the British or Russians would welcome them either. What is more, if they are scattered they'll be harder to watch. And unless we keep an eye on them they might slip back into Germany after a few years.

These difficulties however, must be overcome in some way for the primary need is that the German general staff be smashed now—permanently.

THE CHURCHILL DEFEAT—

The overwhelming defeat of Winston Churchill in the British general election marks the passing from the international scene of one of the most courageous and colorful figures in British history. It leaves Marshal Stalin as the lone remaining member of the original Big Three.

There seems little doubt that most Americans would have preferred to see M.r Churchill continued as Prime Minister not only because he was generally well liked in this country but because we had become accustomed to dealing with him. There is no reason that we can forsee however, why we should not get along just as well with Mr. Attlee.

Some persons might say that the rejection of Mr. Churchill by the British people is gross ingratitude for his magnificent service during the desperate days of the war. But there is another way of looking at it. No nation can afford to continue a leader in office no matter how thankful that nation may be to him for past service, if it feels that someone else can do a better job. And apparently that is how the people feel about the man who has led them for the past five years.

The change in governments is not expected to have any effect on British foreign policy since both parties were in agreement on that score. The election was fought out strictly on domestic issues.

In spite of his defeat Winston Churchill will go down in history as one of the greatest of Britain's great Prime Ministers.

PRESIDENT'S POPULARITY—

When Harry Truman accepted the "Throttlebottom" role in Government last January 20, he little dreamed that he was not only to become President less than 90 days later, but was to attain a degree of popularity which even his predecessor had never achieved.

Yet, a recent Gallup poll shows that 87 percent of the American people approve the way he is handling his job as President. This compares with the Roosevelt high of 84 percent in January 1942.

There has been general surprise at the efficient way he has taken over duties as chief executive. But he was better prepared for the job, at least in regard to domestic affairs, than most persons realize. His work as chairman of the Senate Investigating committee carried him deep into more national problems than is generally known. He knows the war production picture from start to finish and is familiar with reconversion problems.

He has uncovered wasteful spending in government and he sees the need of a balanced budget at the earliest possible date.

Mr. Truman can hardly hope to maintain his present degree of popularity indefinitely but he has set up a popularity score that is not likely to be equalled or surpassed for a long time to come.

May peace fall like a blanket
Upon this tired world;
May it smother the fires of greed and hate,
And cause war flags to be furled.
May it link all warring countries
Into a chain of love, —
And renew these weary nations
With strength from God above.

A doughboy in Ireland was invited inside a citizen's home for a glass of milk. As he sipped the beverage he noticed, on a center table under a glass cover, a brick with a faded rose on top of it.

"Why do you cherish it this way," he asked his host, "that common brick and the dead rose?"

"Shure, me lad," came the reply, "there's certain memories attachin' to them. Do you see this big dent in me skull? Well, it was made by that brick."

"But the rose?"

"The rose," he explained, "is off the grave of the man who threw the brick."

The darkey preacher didn't hit it off well with his congregation and was asked to leave the parish. So on the last Sunday he mounted the pulpit and preached his sermon. Germany's People Prefer Yanks For Occupation Army citizen condoned none of the atrocities their leaders committed or even knew about most of them. But I guess they are still involved in the crimes for having that kind of leaders in the first place. The longer you are in Europe, however, the more evident it becomes that the common people have little or no participation in their government or in the choosing of that government.

Well I guess I'm sort of writing an essay and not a letter so best I get back to more personal matters. During the guarding to prevent the Germans from pulling stakes, I was in charge of a patrol which we ran every four hours in a jeep. We had to be heavily armed for the Germans are really desperate and even willing to fight us rather than face the Russians. We didn't have any major trouble on our patrol though. We ran about ten miles up the river, checking all the outposts and bridges on our way.

On the fourth day after the Squadron had pulled out, toward evening the Russians arrived. They came in a disorganized convoy made up of every type of vehicle imaginable. There were American jeeps, Studebaker trucks, Dodge weapon carriers, all kinds of German military vehicles, dozens of looted German civilian cars and even a few trucks of Russian manufacture. Of all the European armies and I've seen segments of most all of them, the Russians are the dirtiest, most disorganized and fiercest of them all. There isn't one of them with a uniform like any other one. The only thing uniform about their dress is the lack of uniformity. There are faces of all kinds, arrogant and intelligent faces of the officers, youthful adolescent faces and the most singular of all—the barbaric, terrible faces of the Mongols and Siberians. The only thing neat and military about them is their weapons. Their vehicles and clothes are unbelievably dirty, their convoys are strung out for miles. Units of their convoys are stopped here and there, looting from the Germans and raising hell in general. I saw several of their trucks go by stacked high with German livestock, pigs, sheep chickens. Many of the soldiers are women and they are just as hard as the men. With the Americans the men are reserved, contemptuous and yet friendly. On one of our patrols they stopped our jeep, invited us into a German bar and proceeded to set up round after round for which, of course, they paid nothing. When the proprietor finally ran out of beer and liquor they started really raising hell and myself and the two privates that were with me took off before any real trouble began that we might get involved in. Most of the Russians talk fair German and most of us have learned to communicate somewhat satisfactorily in German (with much hand waving and guttural English thrown in) so we managed to have a pretty good time with them. We gave them American cigarettes and they beat us on the back like brothers.

The second day after the Russians arrived we withdrew and came out here and left the Germans in tears. Some of the boys had fallen in love with German girls and I thought they were going to break down, too.

This is a picturesque part of Germany, rolling and forested, and from our camp, which is on a rather high area, we have a nice view of the valley of the Main. We're restricted to the area though so I doubt if I'll be able to see much of Frankfurt or the surrounding country. We had a hell of a ride up here, it rained all the way but today is clear and hot.

Mr. and Mrs. James O'Connor and family of 4620 Saratoga Ave. have been enjoying a two month's visit with Mr. O'Connor's brother, Thomas, and his wife, Mrs. O'Connor of Kansas City. The two gentlemen had not seen each other for 24 years and many reminiscences were in order.

Mrs. Chester Rice of 2125 Chatsworth Blvd. is entertaining her brother, Ralph Alexander, who arrived Sunday from Kansas City, Mo. Mrs. Rice's daughter Miss Marjorie Rice is in Kansas City visiting relatives and friends. Train reservations being such as they are now made these visits a little mixed up.

Mr. Kline, cox USNR, recently returned from 2½ years in the South Pacific and had been sent to Texas for duty but has now been returned to Camp Elliott. They will again make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Williams, 2319 Seaside St.

The Mother Goose Nursery school at 2133 Chatsworth Blvd. will be closed during the month of August and will reopen the day following Labor day. The school has needed renovating for some time and its proprietress, Mrs. Meta Bruce, felt this a proper time to make ready for a fitting re-opening in the fall.

Mrs. Pearl Wickliffe has been enjoying a vacation from her duties at Dr. G. H. McDonald's office but will return to work Monday. Mrs. Wickliffe is an inveterate gardener and her yard abounds now with all the many beautiful summer flowers. Her asters, zinnias and dahlias, not to mention her many varieties of tuberous begonias are lovely to see.

Little Jeffery Stephenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stephenson, 4430 Del Monte Ave., celebrated his sixth birthday last week Wednesday, July 25 at Mother Goose Nursery school. Each child's party is given with a certain degree of formality that opens with a march by all children to the luncheon table where he cut his cake decorated with pink and green.

Capt. Robert Perlman, USA, on his return home last week Wednesday after three years over seas, stated that he was more concerned over our rationing and wondered if he could get a satisfying meal, than to tell us of his exploits during his absence. Capt. Perlman has many friends among the young people of Ocean Beach and will be glad to see and hear from them.

Miss Meta Bruce, 3604 Bernice Dr. came down from Pasadena during the past week-end to attend the Minstrel show. Miss Bruce has been attending the Community Playhouse in Pasadena and is herself in a play this coming week. She will return to her home August 27. Peebles of Ocean Beach left Monday for Canada where Mrs. Baxter will visit for a month with her sister. While there they will pay a visit to their old home town in Duncan, B. C. He was presented with the Purple Heart for shrapnel wounds in his legs that hospitalized him for 105 days in hospitals in Marseilles and Cannes. France. This is his first visit home in 13 months and he has been in the Army for two years.
